Keeping our school neat and clean were the custodians, Glen Ladwig and Robert Doner.

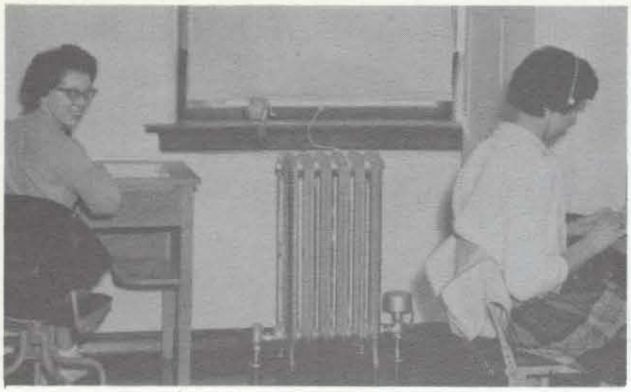
Doing the cooking this year for the public school system are Mrs. Blevins, Mrs. Tomek, and Mrs. McCracken.

The school secretary is Mildred Smith. She helps train the office practice girls as well as the other duties she performs.

THIMK



Another phase of the business world is learning how to operate office machines. Shown are Doris Hoeft and Annie Klement.

Pictured above are the office practice girls. They do various duties each day for the teachers to whom they are assigned.

To prepare us to meet

In today's age of high mechanization, there is an ever-growing demand for persons experienced in operating office machines. Providing a basis for this is office machines which is under the direction of Mrs. Kay Robinson. She also impresses upon her students the importance of the commercial courses of typing, office practice, and steno. Each day is regarded as a new challenge in the mastery of these courses.

Learning the vital fundamentals of becoming a good secretary are the Steno II girls, who are taught by Mrs. Robinson.

Striving for a perfect copy are the members of the typing classes. Here they are conscientiously attempting that goal.

Skill and dexterity are important in a secretarial job. The girls of Steno I learn to master the correct techniques of shorthand.

A course that is enjoyed by all of its members is the drivers' education course. Ready to practice driving are Terry Grubaugh, Billie Wright, and instructor, Mr. Mullins.

the outside world

Mr. Maret, who teaches Spanish, attempts to impress upon his students the basic fundamentals of it and to help them gain a truer understanding of their Latin neighbors.

In drivers' education Mr. Jerry Mullins teaches his students the skill of good driving and gives them a knowledge of the maintenance of an automobile.

Under the direction of Mr. Robinson mechanical drawing is offered to those who wish to learn drawing skills.

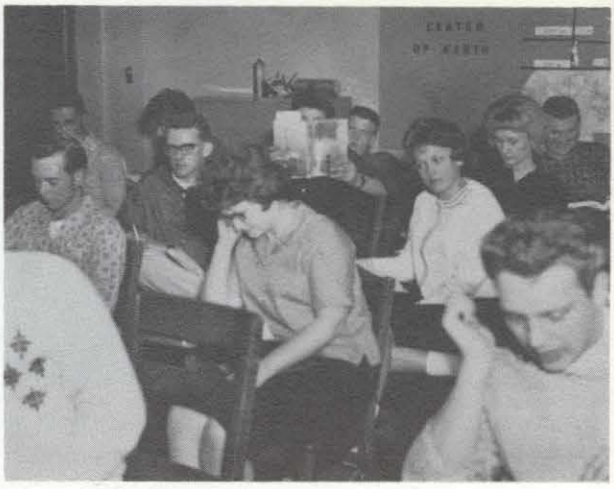
Showing the class the proper sentence structure of Spanish are Grayce Ann Stara and Steve Minnick.

Striving to gain perfection in their drawing are the mechanical drawing students under the supervision of Mr. Robinson.



Studying the wonders of our world are the members of the physical science class.

of sciences

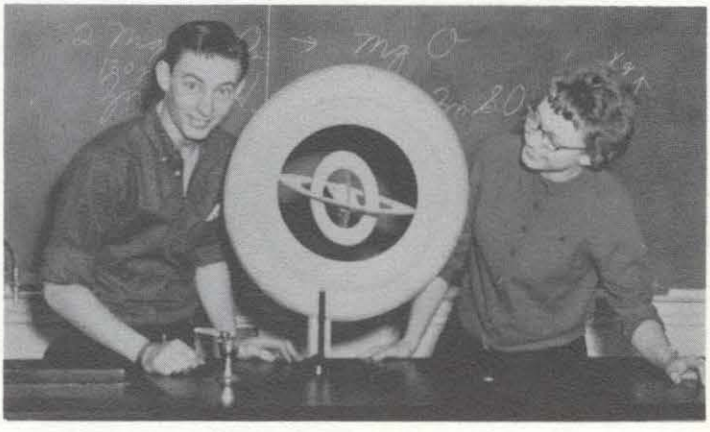
Linda Kulhanek and Jerry Adams are shown demonstrating the rotation of the planets to the others in the general science class.

A knowledge of science is essential in our scientifically advanced world of today. In keeping with this advancement, general science, biology, senior science, physics, and chemistry are offered by DCHS.

Busy preparing their next day's assignment while Mr. Pickard stands ready to assist are the members of the physics class.



Puzzled about many of the mysteries of science are chemistry students Jack Wolfe and Gladys Stara.

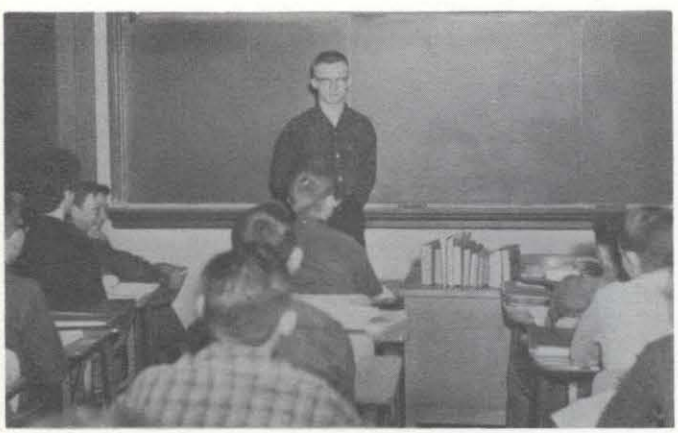
The diligent students of English IV look as if they're studying hard. Aren't they?

and languages

The most important course taught at DCHS is English. A mastery of it is a necessary part in any occupation. In addition, Mrs. Lawson, Miss Monfross, and Mrs. Wooley attempt to teach their students the value of individual as well as group thinking.

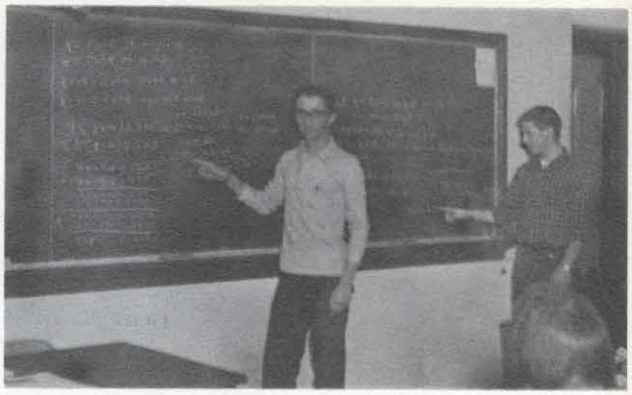
A unit of study in the English III class is being explained to the class by Lynda Otto. Everyone enjoyed the unit of diagraming.

Studying the principal parts of speech are the English II class. They know that it will be important in later years.



Giving a book report to his classmates is Vernon Rasmussen. The class gave eight book reports in their class.

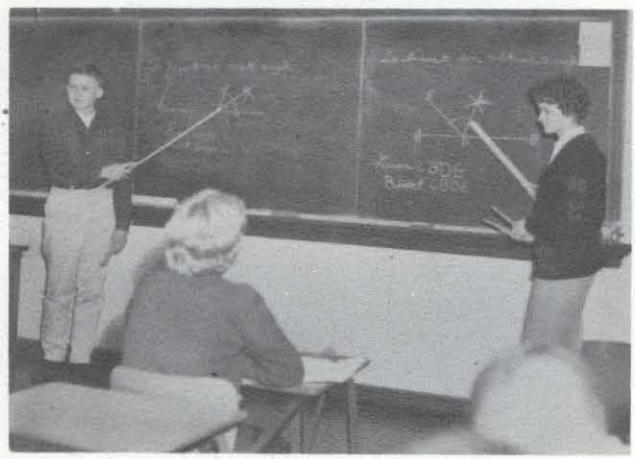
The students of algebra I seem to be concentrating very hard on their assignment.



Working an equation can be harder than it looks. Jack Eberly and Bob Gingery have worked theirs correctly and are showing them to the algebra II class.

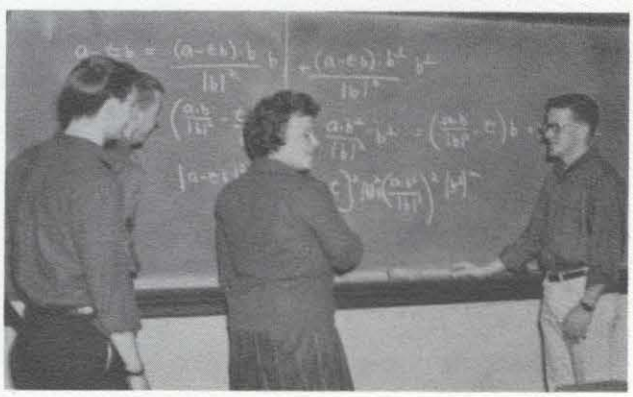
we are taught to figure

The value of math courses in daily life cannot be over emphasized. To meet this increasing demand a new math course, trigonometry, was added to the curriculum. In it, students are prepared for higher education by Mr. Pickard. Also under guidence of Mr. Pickard is general math. Algebra, geometry, and advanced algebra are under the guidance of Mrs. Covoult.



Do you know how to bisect an angle? Jerry Rehor and Sharon Havlena have learned and they are showing their findings to the geometry class.

Learning the fundamentals of mathematics are the general math class.



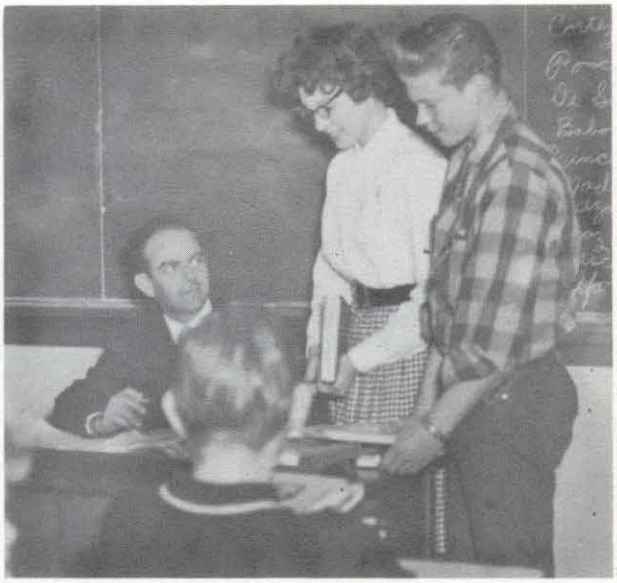
Experimenting in the field of math is the Trigonometry class consisting of Jack Wolfe, Mike O'Brien, Sandra Sweney, and Tom Perrin.

The American History classes are under the direction of Mr. Penner. The students shown here, are looking for famous battles in the Civil War. They are Sue Hajek, JoAnn Vanis, Dave Zeilinger, and Dave Dobesh.

Examining one of the bulletin boards made by the class are Kathy Bock, Larry Kmoch, and Mr. Penner.

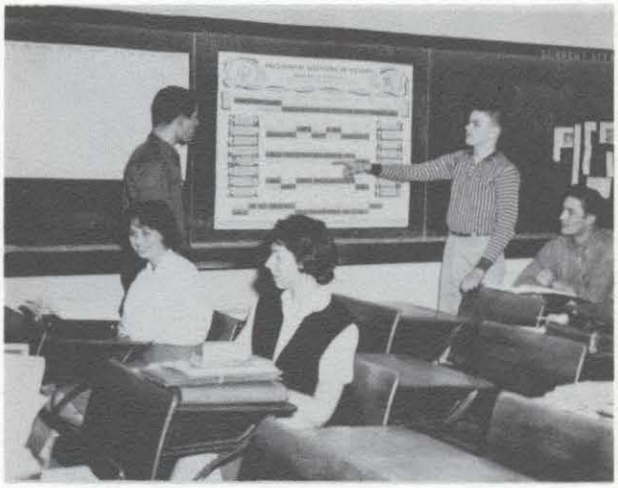
with skill and efficiency

An understanding of the past may be the key to the future. The events of today become the history of tomorrow. These are the principles stressed by Mr. Penner in American Problems and American History, and by Mr. Maret in World History. Also stressed is the value of good citizenship in relation to the future.



Mr. Maret is giving individual help to two students in the World History class. Receiving help are Gayle Navrkal and Ron Smaus.

Preparing their next day's assignment is the American Problems class. In this class you learn the basis of our American laws.



Explaining a chart of the Presidents of the United States to the American Problems class are Dick Taylor and Bruce Piller.

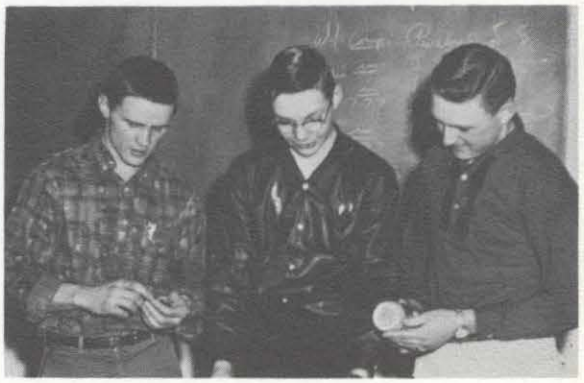
Discussing some of the problems of farming is the Voc. Ag. III class.

Listening to Rick Otto say the Creed are the Voc. Ag. I boys. Their purpose is to learn the fundamentals of farming.

the problems of

The backbone of the nation is its farmers. Preparation for a future in agriculture is given by Mr. Joe Horak in the vocational agriculture classes. Besides farming the boys also learn animal husbandry and related subjects.

Learning how to overhaul a motor are Lloyd From and Don Daro of the Ag. III class.



One of the units of study for the Ag. II class is learning to recognize different seeds and weeds.

Learning the correct techniques in cooking are members of the freshman homemaking class. They are Pat Mead, Donna Kratochvil, Margaret Tomek, and Joyce Bohuslavsky.

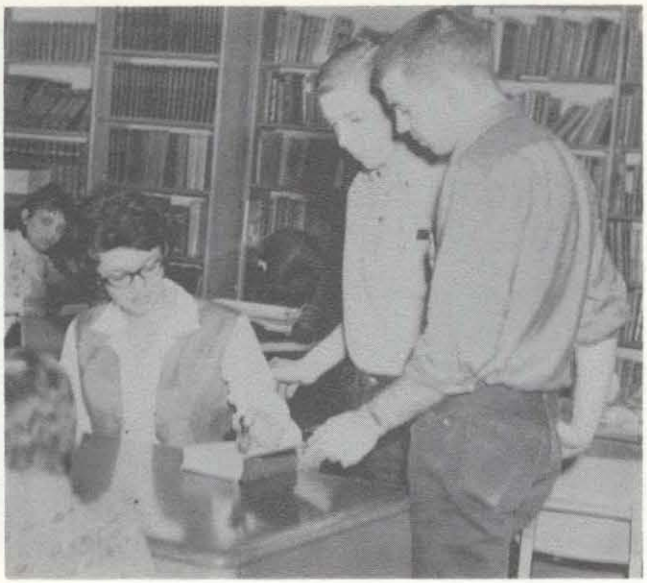
An interesting unit of study for the homemaking students is on the care of small children. Glenda Engle is helping care for the children who attend play school.

the domestic world

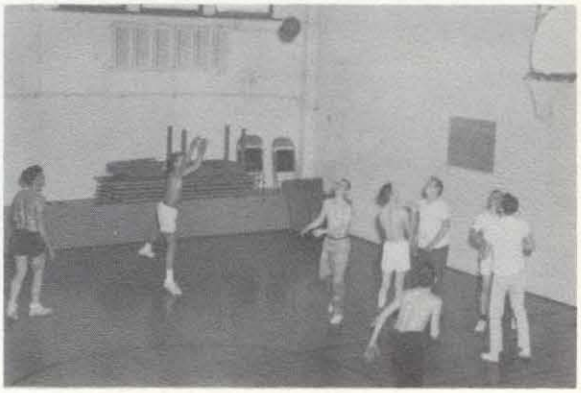
Homemaking is the means of preparation for a future of family living. Some of the many and varied aspects of this department are cooking, sewing, child care, and first aid. Through home experiences, the girls have an opportunity to test their knowledge of these skills. Much valuable help and advice is given the students by their teacher, Mrs. Struebing.

The sophomore girls are being demonstrated the automatic washer by Mrs. Struebing. Listening attentively are Sharon Poe, Mary Sack, Sharon Kasper, Jackie Kucera, Sharon Havlena, and Joyce Byam.

Mrs. Struebing is shown answering one of many questions presented to her by the senior homemaking girls. Carol Lee Bohaty, Joyce Styskal, and Vicki Bock hope to learn the answer.



Making good use of our library facilities are Mike O'Brien and John Minnick. The librarian is Cheryl Moyer.



Basketball is one of the many activities in boy's physical education. Throughout the year they learn that physical health is essential in today's world.

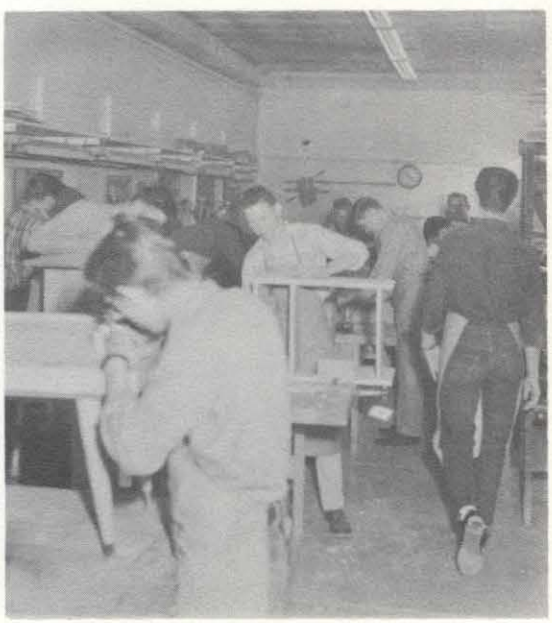
Under the guidance of Miss Monfross, anyone interested may learn the fundamentals of library work. The high standard of the library is improved by the addition of many new books and magazines each year.

This year physical education classes are taught by Mr. Donald Penner and Mr. Jerry Mullins. The students learn teamwork and the value of keeping physically fit.
With the guidance of Mr. Bilse Robinson, the boys in Industrial Arts learn to use tools in order to create useful and attractive items.

Physical fitness is stressed in the girl's P. E. class. They also learn the value of group cooperation.



Hard at work proving their ability in industrial arts is the Shop II class.

One of the purposes of the student council is to have a party at least twice a year. Above is one of their parties with many attending.

The annual Honors Convocation was held on March 27. We were honored to have Dr. N. A. Thorpe as the speaker. The top quartile of each class was recognized and honor pins were given to the juniors and seniors having an 89.5 average or above.

our school spirit

Representing their individual classes the members of the student council strive to improve faculty-student relationships and to provide entertainment for the student body. They sponsor a party for the whole student body and also lead the assembly in the flag salute on Monday mornings. This group is under the guidance of Mr. Ron Gray.

and portray and

The David City Thespians troupe 1272 has done a good job this year in producing their class plays. The junior class presented "No More Homework" before a big and appreciative audience. The seniors worked diligently and presented "Come Out of the Closet". The entire troupe enjoyed the initiation of the juniors into the organization. The group is made up of juniors and seniors who has either participated in the class play or was a member of an important committee for the production. The group is sponsored this year by Mrs. Doris Wooley.

The officers who led the organization this year are Marjorie Wynegar, president; Steve Henk, treasurer: Tony Kmoch, secretary; and Joe Wilson, vice president.

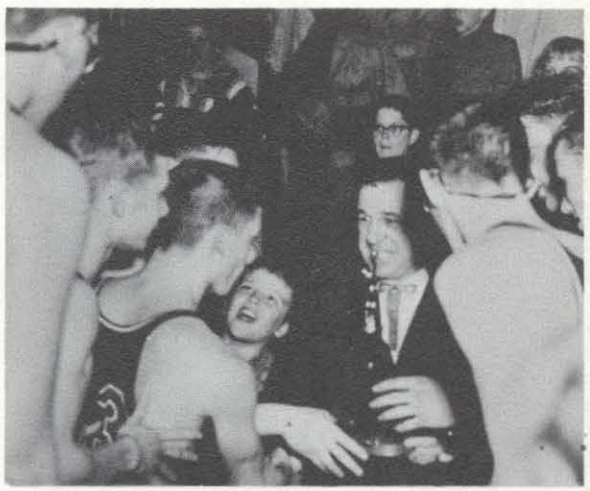
by winning the Platte Valley Conference Tournament

The David City Scouts hustled to a very impressive record of 13 wins and 5 losses for the regular season and ended with an over-all record of 15 wins and 6 losses after the district tournaments. The squad worked very hard under the coaching of Mr. Don Penner. The Scouts raced to two victories to capture the Platte Valley Conference Tournament crown.

The team went into the finals of the district tournament held at Columbus St. Bonaventure after defeating Fullerton and David City Aquinas. The finals against Madison ended with the score Madison—62 and David City—58, after David City battled to the very end to receive a berth in the state tournament.



Aren't they happy? Here the boys are receiving the 1963 Platte Valley Conference Championship Trophy.
