There were fifty-nine buck privates who answered the call to arms. Realizing that they had a lot of work to do in four short years, these "rookies" taking plenty of kibitzing from the noncoms, struggled feverishly at their tasks.

Many buck privates participated in athletics. Some were good enough to play on Mr. Haskin's "Wild-cat" football team. Some played second team basketball. The buck privates came through with flying colors, winning the Central Six Freshman Relay.

They held a party at the canteen, excluding the higher ranking noncoms.

Fifty-six doughboys returned to camp promoted to private first class.

Many PFC's participated in band; Betty Vybiral and Lujane Johnson were majorettes in the marching band. They were also well represented in dramatics, girls glee, and choir.

The high school football team with the aid of the first class privates, went undefeated. Two PFC's lettered in football and three lettered in baskeball.

All the PFC's enjoyed a party at the canteen.

Sixty proud corporals reported for duty, generous in giving advice to the privates. Corporals from several other camps were transferred here.

Seven coporals lettered in football, while five corporals earned letters in basketball. The corporals won the inter-class tournament with ease.

Corporals were also important in Pep Club, Girl Reserves, dramatics, choir, girls glee, and in the normal training class.

A banquet in honor of the sergeants was sponsored by the corporals. This was a gala affair, being held in the new Municipal Auditorium. The theme, Pan Americanism, was carried out adeptly.

The world seemed to be turning in the right direction for the corporals, because they were promoted to the rank of sergeants. These "top kicks," telling the lower ranking personnel what to do, really thought they had the world by the tail.

The sergeants were active in athletics and in activities. Five of them received honorable mention on the Central Six Honor Roll in football. One was mentioned on the Central Six Honor Roll in basketball. Many girls were outstanding in organizations and in Vocal work, receiving high honors in the District Music Contest.

The corporals feted the sergeants at a banquet in the David City Municipal Auditorium, February 3, 1944.

The play committee selected "Old Doc" by Jean Lee Latham for the class play. The play was given in the city auditorium, May 19, the first class play to be presented in the new auditorium.

The great day arrived, May 23, and after four long years of struggling, the sergeants received their diplomas, automatically rating them as second lieutenants.

UNDER-GRADUATES

For Those Who Follow The Juniors

On that long-awaited day, September, 1941, seventy-six green but "up and at 'em' freshmen started their four-year climb to their high school diplomas. To lead them through perhaps the most difficult year of all, when everyone watched their every move with that "how dumb you are" look in their eyes, were Mr. Pritchard and Miss Collier. These seventy-six greenhorns chose Harold McElravy as president, Alice Richards as vice-president, and Gene Smith as secretary-treasurer to act as student leaders.

The class amused themselves with two class parties. They went out of this uncomfortable year anticipating the day when they could look down upon future freshmen.

This day came! And seventy sophomores reported! To assist them with their trials and tribulations this year were Mis Hoffman and Mr. Barringer. As a student body they elected Lloyd Vanderheiden, president Yarmel Troupe, vice-president; and Bob Gross. secretary-treasurer, to represent them.

The usual class parties were held. But wait—these class parties weren't the usual kind!—the sophomores really had f-u-n!!

The class was honored to have two lettermen in football and one in basketball. This year went along, and out as smoothly as the previous one. The sophomores looked ahead to being real upperclassmen the following year.

On September 6, 1943, fifty-nine upperclassmen reported to dear old D. C. H. S. Through this full but enjoyable year Miss Roos, Miss Henderson, and Mr. Bauman were on hand to solve the more difficult problems. Virgene Hansen, president, Kathleen Gilmore, vice-president, and Yarmel Troupe, secretary-treasurer, did a "bang-up" job of steering their classmates through a very arduous year.

The class entertained the seniors with the annual Junior-Senior Banquet, which proved both enjoyable and entertaining for all.

The class was again honored to have four football lettermen, as well as one letterman in basketball. We, the rest of the junior class are proud of you "fellas" and hope to see you right in there with the same spirit next year. We as a class are also proud to have in our midst two cheerleaders, two majorettes, and a vocalist.

We are looking forward to filling the shoes of the present day seniors and hope they fit us as well as they did the present graduating seniors.

Sophomore Class History

On September, 1942, there was an enrollment of forty-nine freshmen, twenty-seven girls and twenty-two boys. Their first class meeting was held soon after school started. At this meeting the following officers were elected: president, Wilma Bartels; vice president, Della Uhe; secretary-treasurer, Romona Knott. Their first party was held near Hallowe'en at which time the members became more acquainted. Their sponsors were Miss Collier and Coach Mosley.

On September 6, 1943, there was an enrollment of forty-four sophomores, twenty-four girls and twenty boys. At a class meeting which was held soon after school convened the following officers were elected: president, Charles Dale; vice-president, Bill McCracken; secretary-treasurer, Donald Proctor. A class party was held February 16, 1944. Their class sponsors were Miss Hoffman and Mr. Semrad.

Freshmen Class History

On September 7, 1943, bright and early in the morning, fifteen boys and twenty-four girls entered the portals of David City High School. They held a classmeeting the second week of school and elected the following officers: president, Dennis Vernon; vice-president, Don Loy; secretary-treasurer, Mary Ann Locke.

Considering their handicaps they were well represented in band, athletics, choir, and girls glee.

They held two class parties at which the members became better acquainted, and traded stories of how they had been humiliated by the upperclassmen.

Their sponsors the first semester were Miss Collier and Mr. Willits. Sponsors the second semester were Mrs. Rice and Mr. Semrad.

For Followers of Gridiron Battles

With only twenty-five men reporting for football, the 1943 squad was the smallest in many years. Returning were but seven lettermen: Dick Birkel, Bill Gilmore, Bob Behrns, Thurman Hinds, Dan Pohl, Herman Hansen, and Charlie Birkel. This made it necessary for Coach Willits to groom several new players for the vacant positions. The team was one of the lightest in the history of the school, but they turned in a creditable season consisting of 4 wins, 2 losses, and 1 tie.

Following is the season's record:

David City	0	Fullerton	0	David City	0	Columbus	6
David City	18	Central City	0	David City	19	Seward	6
David City	19	Wahoo	0	David City	0	Aurora	6
David City	19	Schuyler	0

The Scouts totaled 77 points and limited their opposition to three touchdowns, two of the three spelling defeat for David City.

Bill Gilmore was chosen honorary captain for the 1943 season, during which eighteen boys earned their letters.

Lettermen: Seniors: Dan Pohl, Don Baker, Bob Behrns, Dick Birkel, Thurman Hinds, John Schweser, John Graybill, Bill Griffin, Dan Hook, and Bill Gilmore.

Lettermen: Juniors: Harold McElravy, Lloyd Vanderheiden, Harold Allen, Bob Ficke, Herman Hansen, Eugene Smith, and Charles Birkel.

Sophomore Bill McCracken also made his letter, and is a promising backfield man.

When the Central Six All Conference Honor Roll was selected, five David City players were named. They were Bill Gilmore, Bob Behrns, Dick Birkel, Thurman Hinds, and Dan Pohl.

The senior football players leave school this year with a record of having won 27 games, lost 4, and tied 1 during the four years that they have been in high school.

Fullerton 0-David City 0

The first game of the season brought together two teams that were as yet not functioning as a unit. However, David City had a slight edge on Fullerton inasmuch as they were able to move within one foot of Fullerton's goal. The Scouts lost the ball on downs, thus failing to score. When the game ended the score was still 0-0, the only tie of the year.

Central City 0-David City 19

After one week of hard practice during which the flaws of the first game were remedied, the squad journeyed to Central City where they severely trounced the Bisons. David City's sharp blocking and tackling as well as their excellent team work made this the best game of the season. It is believed that Central City's sandburrs sparked the team for the remainder of the season!

Wahoo 0-David City 19

David City came very near letting Wahoo gain the upper hand early in the first quarter. David fumbled on their forty-yard line and Wahoo recovered. A pass to the five-yard line awakened the Scouts and a strong goal-line-stand enabled them to take possession of the ball on downs. A determined David City team then drove the ball back to their forty-yard line just as the quarter ended. Gilmore raced 40 yards on a faked naked reverse for the counter, and Baker drove off tackle for the conversion. Wahoo did not threaten for the remainder of the game and David again scored in the third quarter. In the last few minutes of the game Pohl scored on an end run.

Schuyler 0-David City 19

This was the most anticipated game of the year. Both teams were keyed to a high point but from the opening whistle it appeared that the Scouts were having everything their own way. David City had not been scored upon yet in the season and the team intended that it should not be changed. The result was that Schuyler suffered a great pounding throughout the game and gave up without a good fight.

Columbus 6-David City 0

After having gone undefeated and unscored upon in the previous four games, it was with great hopes that David City traveled to Columbus to meet the Discoverers. A fine drizzle soon made the dirt field a slippery morass, which prevented the two teams from using as much speed as they might have. During the second quarter Herman Hansen, who had kept David City in the game by his excellent punting, had the misfortune to dislocate his elbow and had to be removed. However, Bill Griffin, Herman's protege, turned in a fine game the remainder of the season at Hansen's tackle position. Columbus scored in the third quarter on a flat pass from Brock to Rood.

Fullback Dick Birkel was unable to play due to a leg injury received earlier in the season and this was a great handicap to the Scout's backfield.

Seward 6-David City 19

This was the second best game of the year played by David City. Another hard week of practice brought much sharper blocking and Dick Birkel's being moved to his old guard position enabled the line to open many holes for the Scout's backfield. The first quarter of the game was played on even terms, but at the beginning of the second period the Scouts took the offensive and kept it up for the remainder of the game. Gilmore plunged across for two touchdowns and Baker scored on a trick play which caught Seward completely unaware. This marked the third conference victory for David City.

Aurora 6-David City 0

As it had been for the past few years, the Conference championship was played for between David City and Aurora. David constantly threatened to score and approached Aurora's one foot line four times, only to fail in the attempt to go over for a touchdown. Aurora intercepted a pass on their own forty-yard line and ran it down to the Scout's thirty. A determined David City team held them, but on their last down, with but forty seconds left in the game, Aurora threw a very unorthodox pass and won the championship.

Basketball

The basketball season opened with thirty-five boys reporting to Coach Willits, among whom were six lettermen: Dan Pohl, Thurman Hinds, Don Baker, Bill Gilmore, Harold McElravy, and John Schweser.

This year's team had a more successful season than any other team had been able to enjoy in ten previous years. Having a comparatively short team, Coach Willits worked to develop a smooth, fast-breaking squad to offset the disadvantage in height. The Scouts displayed this at the first of the season, but became more inconsistent as the season progressed. However, this temporary lull was overcome, and the Scouts advanced to the stage where they were playing much better basketball than some scores indicate.

Guard Dan Pohl was selected on the Central Six All Conference Honor Roll.

The Senior lettermen this year were Don Baker, Bob Behrns, Dan Pohl, Thurman Hinds, Bill Gilmore, John Schweser, and Milo Navratil.

Junior Harold McElravy again made his letter.

In the County Tournament, the David City second team won the third place Class B trophy by defeating the Ulysses seconds.

In December the Pep Club sponsored the annual presentation of the Scout Girl and Scout Boy. Marilyn Schweser and Dan Pohl were chosen by the Pep Club and lettermen on the basis of scholarship, personality, and enthusiasm. They were awarded identification bracelets. The presentation was made during the latter part of a high school dance sponsored by the club. Previous to this dance, the girls entertained the athletic boys at a box social.

The membership was based upon a percentage of the class groups, one-third of the senior girls being selected, one-fourth of the junior girls, one-fifth of the sophomore girls, and one-sixth of the freshman girls. Each member was selected by the vote of the girls in her class. The membership roll included thirty girls.

The girls elected for office were Barbara Wilson, president; Virgene Hansen, vice-president; Dorothy Pohl, secretary; Marjorie Nantkes, treasurer.

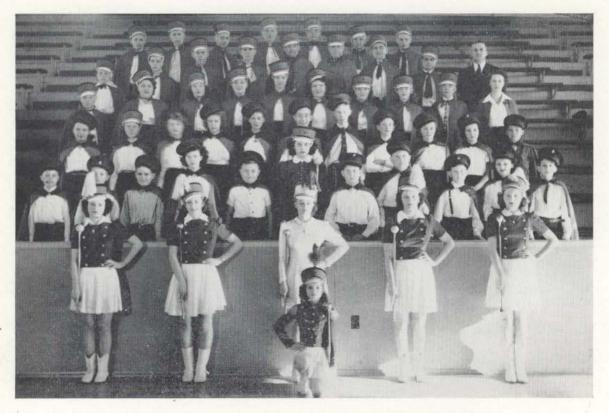

Cheerleaders, who were chosen by the vote of the Pep Club, were Marilyn Schweser, Naomi Stier, and Yarmel Troupe.

Activities included rallies, marching with the high school band, sponsoring concessions at the football and basketball games, and entertaining the athletic boys at Christmas.

The Annual Basketball Banquet was held in the City Auditorium on March 30. At this occasion the basketball boys and Coach Willits were honored. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Basketball Queen and King. Darleen Sanley was accorded the formetr honor and Milo Navratil the latter. The four attendants, Marily Schweser, Kathleen Hoffman, Irene Humlicek, and Dorothy Pohl, followed the king and queen through an improvised basketball. The banquet was made possible through the efforts of the Pep Club and their mothers.

Although the main purpose of the Pep Club is to incite enthusiasm among the student body for athletic occasions, it has proved a club of high ideals and achievement.

There are eighteen students in beginning dramatics and eight in advanced dramatics.

The dramatics department of 1943-44, under the direction of Miss Nelson, presented many successful readings, plays, and skits for the high school assembly and city organizations. The advanced presented "Blind Rosa" a Christmas play, as part of the Christmas vesper service in the City Auditorium. The annual one-act play program was given in the first part of May in the high school auditorium.

Physical Education

Under the direction of Coach Willits, the boy's physical education program featured some changes this year. The football season was conducted as the physical education program in the fall of the year. The boys out for football were allowed to start practice at three o'clock in the afternon, an hour earlier than usual. This procedure was continued throughout the basketball and track season as well. Boys who did not wish to engage in competitive sports were allowed to take their physical education an hour earlier in the afternoon.

During the winter and in early spring, a program of intramural sports was added. Among these sports were calisthenics, boxing, and volleyball which gave this program, so vital to the war effort, extra zest.

A total of sixty-seven boys took the course, including twenty boys from the seventh and eighth grades.

Mrs. Rice had charge of the girls' physical education. Their program included calistenics, and intramural sports. There were twenty girls in the class.

Place: The action of the play takes place in the living room of "Old Doc's" home in a small town.

Time: The present. Spring.

Old Doc Hillary expects his son Bob to come home from medical school to practice with him. But Young Doc has been offered a rich and easy big-city practice with Dr. Brand—and also a chance to marry his daughter, Helen.

Young Dr. Hillary is not quite sure what to go though, because he is in love with his home-town girl, and he doesn't have nerve to tell his father that he isn't going to practice with him.

The girl from his home-town breaks off her engagement when she hears of his plans, so Bob goes off on a trip with the Brands without facing his father. When Bob leaves, he leaves a note, and when his father reads it, he suffers a stroke.

After this incident, Ma Brown takes things in her hands. She fakes a telegram to Old Doc, that makes him think Young Doc is taking over the home-town practice after all, and Old Doc dies, happy in that belief.

Young Doc has no intention of doing any such thing—and says so when he hears what Ma Brown has done.

Then, in a compelling scene of great emotional force, Ma shows Young Doc what half a century of practice with the home folks has meant in human lives saved. It's up to Young Doc to choose his practice—and his wife!

Class Will

We, the Class of '44 of the David City High School, in the County of Butler, State of Nebraska, being of extremely sound mind, and almost supernatural memory, and considering the uncertainty of this frail and transitory life, do therefore make, ordain, and publish, and declare this to be our last will.

First we order and direct that our executor, herein afternamed, since we leave no outstanding debts, shall dutifully and faithfully perform all of the bequests hereinafter named.

Second, to the faculty of David City High, we give and bequeath all our knowledge of the troubled sea of life, that they may pilot each frail and precious charge to harbor, and anchor it safely in the ranks of seniors.

Third, to the Juniors we give and bequeath this bit of advice—never let your studies interfere with your high school education.

Fourth, to the Sophomores we give our ability to laugh at the freshmen.

Fifth, to the Freshmen we give and bequeath courage to hear with patience and resignation, all the unjust abuses and burdens heaped upon them by unfeeling teachers; until they may one day call themselves Seniors.

Don Baker wills his cultivated and fertilized "cookie-duster" to Harold McElravy.

To Neal Craig goes Bob Behrn's long list of female associates since Bob is making new ones by now.

Dick Birkel leaves one "he-man" stature to Duaine Lang. Oh! those shoulders!!

Palma Brockevelt wills her ability to listen to Miss Hoffman, talk to Delia and Rita, and yet study shorthand—all at the same time, to anyone who can keep up the pace.

Benny Creech donates his "towering" height to Franklin Mize.

Louise Curry and Marcia Davis bequeath their Schuyler interests to Kathleen Gilmore and Naomi Stier—if they ever happened to make it past Octavia. (That we have to see!)

The diminutive stature of Mary Beth Davis, she leaves to Lucille Brighton.

Norman Daro leaves his Wild West paraphenalia to another Beau Brummel, Denny Vernon.

Lloyd Darrow wills his miniature frame to Lowell Glock.

To Dick Robertson, Bob Drozda leaves his "Nixon Special" haircut.

"Herb" Folkerts will his "ever-victorious" pool cue to Don "Hacksaw" Loy.

Bill Gilmore and Barbara Wilson will their lovemaking during school to any couple dumb enough to accept it.

Wilma Glock leaves her "rose petal" blush to Mary Ann Locke, who could use it.

John Graybill his knowledge of microphones and radios to Miss Nelson, who will need it for some explanations in next year's Senior English classes.

A burned out Ford motor of Bill Griffin's goes to Lloyd Vanderheiden—just to help out a poor Cheve!

Leola Heins bequeaths her shyness in Senior English to Alice Richards.

"June" Hinds leaves his girl to Cora Lee Thomassen . . . Well, he doesn't want her to date out!!

Katie Hoffman wills a newly acquired Bohemian accent to Gladyce Styskal to aid in the development of hers.

Irene Humlicek leaves all her David City male associates to her sister, Gloria. The grass is greener over Dwight-way, isn't it?

Rosemary Litjen falls heir to Marjorie Nantkes' line or machine-gun-chatter.

Milo "Short-shot" Navratil leaves his ability to play basketball and wave at the girls at the same time to Bill McCracken. (As if he needs it!)

Vernetta Novell wills her motto, "Speech is silver; silence is golden," to Wilma Bartels, who really doesn't need it (?).

Marie Neubel leaves a well modulated voice to George Ball, who is trying to be a replica of Wendell Willkie.

Herman Hansen is given by Lillian Powell her artistic ability, so that he will have something worth while to erase from the class room walls.

Magdalen Ptacek wills her ability to entertain Mr. Burgeson during 5th period assembly to Alice Briza.

Danny Pohl leaves his ability to disregard all feminine wiles and stick with C. A. P. to Don Thomas who is somewhat disappointed in love at present.

Marcy Petrzilka leaves her third period telephone calls to Helen Sabata.

Dorothy Peters wills her back seat in the assembly to any future, fortunate senior. (The teachers can't see that far back!)

Mildred Pieters bequeaths her Lincoln interest to Doris Northway. (An old flame never dies, Doris!!) William Pernicek wills his wishful thinking of women to Tyler Vanderkolk who, we are sure, will do more than merely think!

Irene Roelandts leaves her daily letters from a certain Marine to Joyce Nozicka, who needs only one more to make her correspondence an even 100.

Darleen Sanley leaves her "compact" (ahem!) to Ramona Knott.

Shirlee Sargent wills a battered shorthand book to Ramona Darrow, who seems to be very much interested in a business course.

Marilyn Schweser leaves a package of henna rinse to all her friends who call her "Red".

To Bill Maule goes Leo Schaf's continual talking in algebra.

John Schweser wills his job of reading meters to anyone who likes to work in the dark. (Don't all apply at once, fellows!)

Pauline Stevens hands to Charlie Birkel the ability to herd a Model A down the road, he will surely need it next year.

Henrietta Treska wills her way with Tony Roubal to several junior boys who as yet aren't able to show their draft cards. Pity!

Rita Smith leaves her letter-writing during assembly periods to Doris Mae Baer.

Even though she is pretty busy with the marines, Betty Vybiral found time to will a battered baton to "Jinx" Osantowski.

Frank Sabata leaves his ability to act as if he knows what Mr. Bauman talks about in class, to Yarmel Troupe, who thinks he knows it all. Lujane Johnson wills a certain unexcused absence for a trip to Omaha back to Mr. Burgeson because she didn't want it in the first place.

Clarabelle Klein leaves her male tormentor, Louis Vanous, to Shirley Sutton, who should know how to cope with boys of that type by now.

Bob looks as if he would make a good "hash slinger."

Blanche Kobza wills her patience with the whims of Miss Hoffman to Nadine Lanspa, who will need it no doubt.

Delia Leeper wills her calm behavior and ability to study to Rosemary Karash. (These Sophomores!)

Dan Hook wills his singing ability to Glen Kunkee—another fellow crooner.

Gene Lanspa bequeaths his witty remarks to Bob Ficke. "Brother, He needs them"!!)

"Bootblack" Bob Moran leaves his chair in Nixon's barber shop to anyone who can't find any other job, and is looking for a legitimate place to loaf.

The builders of this will—you can hang us if you catch us.

And we do hereby constitute and appoint our sponsor, Mr. Burgeson, sole executor of this, our last will.

In witness whereof, we the class of 1944, the testators do set our hands and seal on this document on the twenty-third day of May, in the Year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four.

Class Prophecy

Time-1965

Place: A luxurious suite in the famous "Navratil-Koliha" Hotel in Washington, D. C.

The candidate for the Non-progressive Party, Lloyd Darrow, is engaged in conversation with his campaign manager, Lujane Johnson. At the moment, they are deeply engrossed in his fan mail from their former classmates.

(Mr. Darrow has been a well-known political figure ever since he shook the hand of Wendell Willkie when he spoke in David City in the Spring of '44.)

Lujane: Ah, at last, Mr. Darrow, I have run across a letter from dear old Bruno. Now who in the world can this one be from? Shall I read it aloud to you, or shall I relate to you its contents?

Lloyd: Don't bother me with all the minor details. Who is it from?

Lujane: It's from your old friend, A. T. Hinds. He mentions that his brother-in-law, Danny Pohl, and he are major generals in the infantry. Ha, ha, this is really a good one; he says that Danny is now the uncle of triplets: Sherry, Tom, and Jerry.

Lloyd: There doesn't happen to be a letter there from Leavenworth?

Lujane: Just a minute and I'll try to find it among all of these others. Why, yes, here is one from our old classmate, Bob Behrns. He doesn't say whether he is in the "Fort" or the "Prison" down there. He says that he is still at Leavenworth learning to be a general. . . . He's a corporal!

Lloyd: It seems to me that he was in Leavenworth for a while back in '44. Is there anything else of interest?

Lujane: Here are a few from David City. Some of our school pals and gals stayed at dear old

David City. We thought it was a pretty dead town when we lived there. This is from Clarabelle Klein who says she is still enjoying country school teaching. This must be her twentieth year of it.

Lloyd: After twenty years she ought to know whether she enjoys it or not. What else does she say?

Lujane: Well, she has finally decided to marry Herbert Folkerts since he is fairly well established at Johnson's Super Hatchery. (That was a deliberate plug by Lu.) Twenty years have taught him quite a bit. He even knows the difference between a white leghorn and an austra-white now.

Lloyd: Funny things happen these days; just look at me. Read the others, Lu.

Lujane: Right! What do you know? Here's one from that pest of a fellow who used to sit behind me in the assembly, Bob Drozda.

Lloyd: Drozda? What does he say?

Lujane: Nothing more than I expected. He is now sole owner of Schweser's Store. He says that he has even expanded the store quite a bit, with branch stores in Abie, Dwight, and Bruno.

Lloyd: Drozda had a good head on him. But the question was—whose was it? I ought to have a letter from Baker here. I get one from him almost every week.

Lujane: Where is he?

Lloyd: Oh, didn't you know? He is up Yukon way selling hot-water bottles to the Eskimos. He found himself a cute little Indian wife and now has ten papooses!

Lujane: Ha, ha! I heard that Frank Sabata was up there too. He is back in the states now selling North Pole Oil Stock to all Harlem.

Lloyd: John Graybill is repairing the radios of the natives in Belgian Congo! Some of these classmates of ours are doing a lititle bit out of the ordinary.

Lujane: Here is a letter from Barbara Wilson. She says her husband, Bill, is running a second-hand-store, specializing Model-T's. Darleen Sanley is editor of the paper that was once called the "Banner". John Schweser is working as a private pilot part-time and the rest of the time on W. P. A.

Lloyd: Say, that looks like the even scrawl of Marilyn Schweser on that letter. Let me have it.

Lujane: All right! Here's a letter from Henrietta Treska. She and William Pernicek are in partnership running a dairy just outside of Bruno. Of all the letters you have from old classmates! I didn't realize there were so many when I was sorting them from the business and political correspondence. I'm surprised that so many of your old classmates are supporting you. They're probably playing safe and writing to both you and Griff so that no matter who is elected president they will get the fullest benefit possible.

Lloyd: Listen to this! Marilyn Schweser took up nursing during the war and became so interested in medical work that she became a veterinarian. She used to be deathly afraid of snakes and gory messes. I would like to see her wrestle a horse around on the operating table. She says she is feeling fine and doing a great busines. She also states that Bob Moran is trying to buy the old Manning building that she is located in. He seems to think that it is good luck to have his office in there since he's running for mayor.

(A knock is heard at the door and Miss Johnson answers it.)

Lloyd: Why, Bill Griffin, I haven't seen you since . . . since . . . (Oh, how absent-minded of me!) since yesterday! How's my worthy opponent today?

Lujane: It's certainly funny that out of the millions of people in this country they should pick out two people from D. C. to run against each other.

Lloyd: Have you seen the hostesses?

Griff: No, I haven't. From the way you said that it must be someone I know.

Lujane: Kate Hoffman and Leola Heins!

Griff: Well! I'll have to go down to see them right away. (Hmm! Especially Kate!)

Lloyd: What was that you said?

Griff: Oh! Nothing. (Griff leaves.)

Lujane: Oh, look! Here's a picture of Palma Brockevelt. She states in her letter that she is an official Ford tester at the Ford plant in Detroit. She drives Fords over ramps and turns them over to see if they are all right. She learned how to do that with her father's car when she was still in high school. She says that Louise Curry and Marcia Davis are engineering the building of an orphanage for the homeless hoboes that come through David City on the "Flying Freight Trains".

Lloyd: Look here! Dorothy Peters pledged me her wholehearted support!

Lujane: It's nice to know someone will vote for you.

Lloyd: She has settled down on a farm and is raising a special breed of Poland China's. These letters certainly are interesting. We really should be out campaigning, but this is easier. Let Griff get a few more votes. He still can't defeat a Darrow!

Lujane: That's what you think.

Lloyd: Hey, look at this one. It's from Arabia. Now who do I know in Arabia? . . . It's from Eugene Lanspa. He has just finished settling a dispute over the big oil pipe line over there and, above all things, he's got a harem.

Lujane: And to think I used to talk to that polygamist! He is just as "whacky" as Dick Birkel, who is making stacks of money running a frog farm. I guess that's quite a business; frog legs are such a delicacy.

Lloyd: Did you see in the paper today that Lillian Powell has just returned from abroad where she has been learning to draw "Superman" for the "New York Celestial Ball"?

Lujane: No, I didn't. But I did see that Daniel Hook has become a professor of English at Cornucopia College, one of the biggest in the world.

Lloyd: It's nice to know that so far, all in our class have led successful lives. Let's read some more of those letters. They have been stacked up for months. By the time we read all we'll know "Who's Who" as well as president. These new voting machines certainly are wonderful. You just stick your year's poll tax receipt in the slot along with your vote, and the vote is automatically radioed to Washington. Norman Daro invented it through his study of radio-teletype.

Lujane: Let's read one more letter and then go to the movie uptown.

Lloyd: O. K. I'll read this one. It's from Irene Humlicek. She's secretary to Professor B. A. Vybiral of Creech College, and she says Wilma Glock is the new typing teacher. Well, I bet Irene can rule any ornery boy in school with an iron hand.

Lujane: She used to rule you with a paper one. If she would have ever connected with any of those books she swung at you, you wouldn't be here today.

Lloyd: She did have a rather violent temper, didn't she? I'm surprised at Creech's endowing a college. Imagine! A multi-millionaire right on his own farm!

Lujane: That movie over there ought to be good. It's called "Love Me Today," co-starring Leo Schaf and Pauline Stevens.

(Sometime later as Lloyd and Lu are just entering the theater.)

Lloyd: I almost got slugged by the line of people back of me while I was talking to the cashier! Mildred Pieters!

(After the movie, in the same hotel suite as above.)

Lujane: That was an excellent picture. It was nice to see Marie Neubel again, but I don't think she made a very good cab driver. Nobody put that mail box in the back seat with us, and she almost drove us right into Sargent's Cafe.

Lloyd: That cafe certainly is a "classy" place. Imagine! Ten dollars cover charge!

Lujane: (Turning on the radio.) Did you hear that? You are ten thousand votes ahead of Griffin. Let's open some more letters. Here's one from Blanche Kobza. She says that she and Delia Leeper joined the "Wacs" at the same time Vernetta

Novell did, and they're teaching soldiers how to dance at Fort Leavenworth.

Lloyd: This one is silly. Mary Beth Davis is one of those female mailmen, only she uses a motor-scooter. Smart girl.

Lujane: That ought to be just the thing. Incidentally, do you know who that was sitting in front of you in the movie?

Lloyd: No, but I wish he would keep track of his shoes. I didn't get to see Schaf throw the villian off the cliff because that guy was looking for his shoe.

Lujane: That was Marcel Svoboda.

Lloyd: It was?!! I wonder why I didn't recognize him.

Lujane: He is the owner of "Around-the-World Freight Company."

Lloyd: He must be doing pretty well. What ever became of Marjorie Nantkes?

Lujane: That's one of the strangest things. She was with her friend, Marcella Petrzilka, and they both went to a bargain counter. The police haven't been able to find a trace of them. They suspect one of the clerks wrapped them up and sold them for mannikins, or whatever you call them.

Lloyd: That certainly is strange. Women seem to go mad at bargain displays. Magdalen Ptacek disappeared too, didn't she?

Lujane: Yes, but they found her. She studied so hard at Wesleyan, after she left high school, that she had a lapse of mind and wandered away. She was finally found in David City trying to start over in school again.

Lloyd: It would be nice to start again. We used to think a person would have to have a lapse of mind to want to go back to school.

Lujane: Well, well! Here's the last letter. It's from Irene Roelandts, who is now a business secretary. She's about to hook a man, but she doesn't say who. Her friend, Rita Smith, is still teaching school.

Lloyd: Tune in the radio to see if the votes have been tabulated yet.

Radio Announcer: May we repeat, ladies and gentlemen: "The final tabulation of the votes for president are: 62,500,000 for the Non-progressive candidate, Lloyd Darrow, and 62,500,001 votes for the Bureaucrat candidate, Bill Griffin. The new president of the United States is Bill Griffin." (click)

Lujane: Lloyd, where are you going?

Lloyd: I'm going to Alaska to find an Indian squaw and settle down just like Baker. Imagine! Defeating me by just one vote! And I'll bet anything it was your vote!

(Author's note: We are all exceptionally sorry that we didn't have enough tall, dark, senior boys to "marry up with the women." We assume that in the future all of you may be either happy spinsters or happily married.)
