Unbreakable

Many of you are probably wondering how this year's, yearbook theme came to be. This year the staff came up with an idea of picking one word that would explain a lot of the events that happen in a school. The theme also had to be easy enough to carry throughout the book. So we went to work thinking about just one word that could fulfill such a job. One staff member came up with this year's theme, their idea was UNBREAKABLE. Unbreakable was voted on and declared this year's theme.

How did the staff member come up with such a word? There is a movie called Unbreakable, released in November of 2000, staring Bruce Willis and Samuel L. Jackson. Jackson's character is a person who is afflicted with some disease which leaves him vulnerable to every type of sickness and injury. His quest is to find someone who is the opposite of him.

Many high school students embark on a similar quest, to find the unbreakable person. Not the unbreakable person somewhere else, but the unbreakable person within themselves. Many obstacles get in the way of every high school student. Our advice is to never give up. Be unbreakable, set high goals, do what you want to do and enjoy high school while you can. It flies by, and once you're a senior, the days go even faster. Prepare yourself for a year of unbreakable memeories that will be made at DCHS, during 2002-2003

Yearbook and newspaper create images of the year

Stories, pictures, quotes, and other things that help you remember "the good old days." When you look in a yearbook, one of the most common things you see and talk about are the memories.

The 2002-2003 Scout staff consists of 12 students this year, which is the biggetst staff there has ever been. They all have their own assigned pages and work hard to get this year's yearbook done in a timely manner, unlike last year, when the yearbooks didn't come in until nearly Thanksgiving.

One staff that doesn't suffer from problems such as meeting deadlines is the Scoop staff. The Scoop staffers have designed a little bit of a new style for this year's school paper. One thing that hasn't changed is their ability to get inside each story, with plenty of quotes and insights from students and teachers alike.

The Scoop's hard work paid off big time this year, as our school newspaper was awarded a jaw-dropping five Golden Kernal Awards by the Nebraska High School Press Association, the highest number of awarded to any school in classes B, C, or D. Their awards were for Excellence in Photography, Editorial Pages, Editorial

Even though English is perhaps the dominant language in our country, it could almost be considered vital to have a brief background of a few other cultures living throughout America.

Involving yourself in the Spanish classes offered at DCHS invites you into a very different atmosphere and can offer you an excellent learning experience. Spanish is probably the least difficult language to learn for people who speak English. The sentence structure is somewhat the same and many times it will convert word for word. Many students will agree that it is fairly simple.

"I think Spanish isn't too tough to learn because Miss Stara teaches it well and breaks everything down for us." said junior Stacy Samek.

Different Languages Different Cultures

There may be no better way for you to explore our nation's past, study social and psychological patterns, or indulge yourself in world affairs than to sign yourself up for the history classes at David City High. There are many classes to choose from, including American History 10-11, world history, American government, sociology, psychology, of modern problems. This year the psychology class went on a class trip to a UNK psychology fair.

"The trip was a great way for us to see how the mind works by doing different activities." said senior Kami Kuhlman.

The building holds alternative education classes as well as advanced classes. Each room also has TV's and cameras so DCHS students can participate with students in other towns using the internet and satellites.

The weightroom has seen improvements with the addition of new equipment. The new equipment includes a leg press and a machine that targets the abs. The new equipment was purchased from money raised during a lift-a-thon by DCHS students.

Art students have also been busy with new projects like self sculpture and other modeling activities. Students have found these projects challenging, yet very fun.

Have you ever wondered why you see so many people wandering around the halls with a digital camcorder? As part of the computer applications class, students go around the school looking for something interesting to film. Many times, this means doing interviews or even filming when people aren't expecting it. The material they get is shown to the class by hooking the digital camcorder up to the computer.

Along with this technology, the 20 laptops have showed their importance. Teachers find it easy and convenient to bring the computer cart to their rooms for research or projects. This has also meant a decrease in the number of people in the media center. Whenever students get a chance, they go to the library to read newspapers, read magazines, use the computers, or look for research. Often it seems like being in school gives the students just as many questions as it does answers. Between the computers and the library, students should have no problem finding anything.

Math and Science Classes: what a variety for DCHS students

There are a variety of classes that students are required to take during high school. Math and science are two areas that offer many of these classes. They both require three completed years for high school graduation. There are many math classes available at DCHS, including: applied math, pre-algebra, algebra, geometry, advanced algebra, functions statistics and trigonometry (FST), and pre calculus and discrete mathmatics (PDM). Many students get intimidated by upperlevel math classes such as FST and PDM, but as time goes on they realize that these classes will be useful in the future. There was also a new student teacher, Mrs. Sholes, who taught geometry, FST, and PDM.

Many science classes are also offered which include physical science, biology, biology II, chemistry, physics, environmental science, and AP biology. These classes also challenge students, but eventually students are proud of themselves for getting through those difficult classes.

Traditionally, many students don't have a strong idea of what vocational classes are, even though most students are involved with them. To get an idea of what the vocational classes are, consider them through the five senses.

In Mr. Kamrath's and Mr. Angell's classes you can see the results of their work. Auto mechanics students get practical experience tearing apart and rebuilding cars. Students in various ag ed classes work on several projects which can be seen throughout the community. They also grow hydroponic plants (plants grown without the benefit of soil).

The sounds of keyboards clicking can be heard on any given day in any of Mr. Parson's computer classes, Mr. Bly's keyboarding classes, or in Mrs. Griffiths's accounting classes. You might also hear the sighs of frus tration when a student's computer program doesn't work the way they want it to, or when an accounting program just doesn't add up the way it should.

But perhaps Mrs. Davis teaches the most "sense"ible classes of all. Consider the feel of soft pillows and stylish clothing created in clothing and textiles class. Smell the aromatic temptations put together during foods class. Once you smell these projects, you know it won't be long until you get a taste of the results.

Upon first inspection, vocational classes seem hard to define. But with further investigation, one soon realizes that it is all common "sense."

Strong Finish

New coach, new team, new attitude was the new motto of the David City Scouts this season. The Scouts got off to a rocky start at the Beatrice tournament. They went 0-6 at the tourney, but lost to some very good competition. Then, the regular season and conference games started. The Scouts had to play seven games before they got their first win against Osceola. Their winning streak began after that. The Scouts won 9 of their last 11 games. The Scouts went into the conference tournament sitting sixth. They beat Fullerton the first round, Osceola the second round, and fell to Friend in the championship, finishing second. This was not the only second place finish for the Scouts, they also finished second at the DC Invite.

The Scouts ended their season at subdristricts. They beat Twin River first round, but later fell to Centennial. The Scout volleyball team finished 11-14.

Come Together

"I think that the season went really well and as soon as we got used to each other we played even better," said sophomore Heather Crook. Most JV teams do start out this way. It takes awhile before people can really learn how to play with each other.

Both junior varsity and freshman volleyball team's record was 5-6. The team really used their two big middles, Lesley Hansen and Annie Kobza for blocking and hitting.

"I think the season went pretty well, we could have done better but we weren't always playing with our heads in the game; therfore, we didn't do as well as we could have," said said sophomore Leanne Niemann.

The boys of the JV football team feel that overall it was a successful team. "I feel that it was a good season and I really enjoyed it," said sophomore Anthony Hruska. The Scouts ended their season winning their last two games against Twin River and Fullerton to make their record 2-4. "Our season went well and I'm going to miss it." said sophomore Malachi Behrens.

The David City Scouts' football team took its first step this season to getting back on track. Despite playing in the toughest district in Class C-1, the Scouts showed great improvement and won their first game in over two years. The Scouts ended up 1-7 this year, but you can't always measure success by records. The Scouts played tough every game and were quite enjoyable to watch. The exciting attack by air worked out well for the Scouts this year, who had the area's top passing quarterback (senior Tom Lensch, 1468 passing yards, 10 TD's) as well as two of the area's leading receivers (seniors Jeff Schmid, 708 yards, 7 TD, and Nolan Behrns, 560 yards, 2 TD). In fact, the seniors as a class proved to be leaders for the team, and did more than anybody else in taking the Scouts in a positive direction.

The Scouts gained respect from the entire town when they played their cross town rivals, David City Aquinas. The Scouts ended the first half with a 10-0 lead, only to lose 14-10 in a heated second half battle. This is the type of improvement the Scouts sought to get all year. Hopefully, they can continue on their road to improvement and carry it over year after year.

Shakin Up Some More Spirit

Homecoming week for 2002-2003 was a very "sweet thang." The halls were decorated with all sorts of candy and signs. Several students participated in the dress up days.Homecoming week had a lot of laughs and tons of pumped up students. Ozzy Osbourne and Spongebob Squarepants decided to join in on the spirit week, which was a big laugh for many students.

As the time got closer for the downtown pep rally, seniors spent a lot of time on the senior float. The float this year was a semi trailer decorated with palm trees, sand, a kiddie pool, rubber duckies, tons of silly string, candy, bike horns, and hay bails. As students got to ride on the float the candidates were styling in convertibles. The candidates were: Queen Kami Kuhlman, King Colby Slonecker, Tara McMillan, Jenna Daro, Tracy Romshek, Jeff Schmid, Scott Stranberg, and Nolan Behrns. Homecoming week had a lot of laughs and tons of pumped up students. "Overall, homecoming turned out really well. Striving to Stay on Top

Practice, practice, practice.....that is what it takes to be successful. Ask anyone on the David City One-Act team, and they will tell you that generally, this statement seems to be true. The past two years the Scouts have brought home back-to-back State Runner-Up trophies from the State Play Production competition. In many minds of the cast and crew, this year would be no different. "For as hard as we work, we deserve to take state this year," said senior, Ian Neesen. "Coach Ockander just does a great job of showing us how to deliver lines correctly, how to gesture, and creating a great stage picture," Ian added. The Scouts dove straight into competition at conference, where they placed third, and then went directly to districts. It was as tough of a district as the Scouts had ever seen, however, they managed to pull off the first place victory and earn their third consecutive trip to Kearney for the state competition. Owen Neesen summed it up best by saying, "We believed in each other, we believed in ourselves, and that is how we got where we are."

"Medicine Man" takes State Runner-Up

For the third straight year, David City's One Act Play took runner-up at State. We asked four of the actors who had been involved in some of these plays to comment on their feelings about such an accomplishment.

"All three years have been awesome. We've won three State Runners-up and have had a lot of fun doing it. But we couldn't have got very far without Mr. Ockander constantly working with us. I'm just glad to be a part of the One Act Team."

Jared Pickett, junior

"I have had so much fun during my three years of One Act. Going-to State all three years has only been a bonus to the fun. We have had to work very hard to achieve what we did and all of our hard work paid off in the end."

Maggie Meier, senior

"It was challenging for all of us. We worked hard, got yelled at, and abused by a vicious man. He made me wear a pink tutu one year and I think he liked seeing us in tights and Indian costumes this year."

Kevin Schatz, junior

"My three years on the One Act team have been very exciting. After stressful, long practices, our hard work paid off. We made it to state and did so well there. The whole team had a lot of fun and GENIUS AT WORK: has a lot to be proud of."

Liz Hart, senior

Strong defense, good attitudes, and teamwork are what kept the Lady Scouts Striving for More

This year's David City Scouts Girl's Basketball team began the season with high hopes in a conquest to be able to compete with their opponents, prove to our school and town that they can be successful, and take on as many wins as possible. The first four games that they played were against some of the top teams in the area. Although the scoreboard wasn't lighting up on the Scouts side, like they had hoped, they were able to battle and give everyone a challenge. The lady Scouts' first win was over the East Butler Tigers.

Throughout the season, the team was ranked in the area's top ten defensive teams. Named to the Holiday Tournament, All Tourney Team were senior Tara McMillan and junior Stacia Fricke. The girls placed third in the Holiday Tournament. The Lady Scouts lost first round in the Conference Tournament, falling to the Osceola Bulldogs. The last loss of the year in the subdistricts ended the season.

Departing the team next year is the lone senior Tara McMillan. "Even though we didn't have a good record, we still had a lot of fun playing." The Lady Scouts must strive for vast improvements in offense next year in order to compete the way they are able.

Where you satisfied overall at the end of the season?

"We were competitive in most of the games. Last season we were out of a lot of the games by th middle of the 1st quarter. This season we were in most of the games until the 4th quarter." ~Coach Doug Hookie~

Many Successes

The JV season was a successful one for the girls this year. They ended the season with a 9-9 record, including winning the Rising City Tournament. "I think we played really well, especially when we won the Rising City Tournament even though many of our girls were gone due to speech." sophomore Sarah Behrns said.

The freshman girls team also played well this year. "I think that we started out slow, but as the season went on we started playing a lot better." said freshman Elise Schmid. They ended their season with a record of 4-5.

The JV Boys worked hard this year to achieve some of their goals. Many had next year on their minds as well. "I got a lot of good playing time that will come in handy next year." junior Reily McKay said. The boys ended their season with a record of 6-9.

The freshman boys worked equally as hard, but weren't quite as successful. They ended their season with a record of 1-9. The freshman team also looks forward to next year in hopes their record turns out a little better.

Ten Seniors Lead Team

The David City Scouts had many goals at the beginning of the 2002-2003 basketball season. One of the goals was to improve their play every week, which many believe they did.

The Scouts finished with a record of 8-13 a definite improvement from last year. The Scouts had a chance to win the confernce title, but lost in double overtime to the Friend Bulldogs ending conference play in second place.

There were also a few disappointments for the team this year. The team consisted of 10 seniors who all had high hopes of post-season play. That hope was cut very short after the 46-45 loss to Milford in the first round of sub-districts. Although not all of the teams's goals were met, they all agree for the most part, the season was a lot of fun. "This season had many ups and downs, but we always played as a team and had fun no matter what," said senior Ian Neesen.

Many spectators agreed with the seniors in saying they had fun watching, and that they were an enjoyable team to watch.

Scouts build toward the end of the year and take Qualifiers With several individuals Some wrestlers unfortunately

With several individuals out for wrestling, team members worked up quite a sweat this year. With only 2 seniors, Joey Harris and Cody Kaiser, to look up to, the 2002-2003 wrestlers did well. "Our whole season is geared up for district and state. If we work hard in the off season, we could have a once in a lifetime chance of bringing home a state championship," coach Kamrath said.

didn't do as well as they planned to do but had set their goals high. The wrestlers did have an excellent work ethic and learned discipline throughout the season. Next year, they plan on having another successful season. It will of course depend on how many seniors go out, and how much work goes into it.

DONE FOR GOOD: Junior Danny Colburn pins his guys within a few seconds which qualifies him to his next round. (above)

Going through the tough meets lead to a great outcome at..... State Wrestling

You fight for your dear life to get away, finally you're free 2points. Even though you may not be so lucky to get away and you're pinned. It's over. You lost by one point, or a few more. This may be the situation for a few wrestlers this year. Lucky for 6 of the wrestlers they made it to state and did extremely well. "Our six state wrestlers repressented our school very well. Four out of the six scored 73 points for us and they are all returning." coach Kamrath said. State wrestlers included freshman Andy Pokorny, sophomores Anthony Hruska and Matt Kastl, juniors Jason and Jared Pickett and Danny Colburn.

Jason and Jared both placed 2nd in weight classes of 125 and 130. Danny Colburn won for his1st time as state champion in the heavyweight class. Colburn's goal was to take state, and he made his goal come true. Neither Hruska, Kastl nor Pokorny placed at state, but they were proud to be there. Next year it's a whole new game and they hope to continue the good season over to next year.

I don't think we're in grade school anymore...

Being a freshman brings new changes, anything from new classes to new names. For most freshman the bigges change from middle school to high school is the homework "I think that we get more homework as a freshman and it is harder than when we were in middle school." freshman Kriss McDonald said.

"Everyone gets a lot more homework now than we did a when we were in middle school." freshman Brittney Lensc said.

Another big change is you get to meet new peopl moving into the high school from other area schools. "Yo become more sociable."Brittney Lensch said.

Many kids become friendlier fromt he upper classmen an even get a little nickname. "When I got into high school th seniors referred to me as Ralphie off The Christmas Story. Andy Pokorny said.

Getting nicknames is just part of freshman experience. Wit any luck their four years will go fast and be prosperous.

Decisions, Rings, and Jobs, Oh MY!

As this years sophomores still keep the largest class with 57. They are beginning to make new and more important decisions that will help them choose classes that will prepare them for college. "I choose my schedule like I did because I am trying to prepare my self for college and also so I could have as many classes with my friends,"said Stacey Helgoth. Along with their class decisions, they are starting to decide what they would like to be after highschool. With so many new decisions and activities going on you would think that it would be hard to handle, but this years sophomores seem to be keeping up just fine.

Many sophomores are also sporting new chunks of metal about their fingers. Most of the class of 2005 decided to get their class rings. With many colors, shapes, and sizes the rings have sentimental value to all who have them.

The sophmores are also learning to juggle afterschool jobs that keep them just as busy as they are in school. Many sophmores get jobs for the experience but most of them just want the hard earned cash to spend on the wants and needs of being a highschooler.

With so many events going on this year for the sophomores, they hardly get the time to realize that they are almost out of here. With all of the new responsibilites, the class of 2005 should be ready for just about anything.

Where'd

The junior year. Classes are tough, after school activities, jobs, and piles of homework make our spare time scarce, and what have you got to show for it? ...another year of high school!

Many have thought the junior year to be the most difficult year in high school. Although it seems stressful at times. most people figure out a way to manage that time and still be able to have an enjoyable year. "I've cut down some of the activities that I used to do so my schedule would be a bit more free." junior Jared Pickett.

Other juniors have found other optional ways of dealing with their busy schedule. "I often wake up at 5:00 in the morning to get up and finish my homework." junior Sarah Beringer.

While junior Stacy Samek has developed a more unhealthy attitude toward her academic life. "I generally don't do homework at night, I just cram it all in during other class times because I am tired of school and am ready to graduate."

WHO NEEDS FOOD? Juniors Daryl Hauck and Cole Meier use their lunch time to "hack"

BIG ENOUGH MOUTH? Senior Colby Slonecker stuffs his face during lunch

by Ian Neesen

It's an undeniable fact that lunch is one of the favorite parts of the day for most DCHS students. It's a time to relax and take a break from a busy day by socializing with friends and enjoying a hearty, well balanced meal to get you through the rest of the day. Whether students eat the school lunch at the cafeteria or bring their own food to enjoy in the commons area, few can deny the important role lunch plays in their everyday lives.

"My favorite part of our lunch break would have to be when I take Stacy Romshek by the arm and do a half sprint to the cafeteria." Senior Joey Harris

"My favorite lunch is spaghetti because of the noodles. Plus nothing beats a great conversation with the lunch ladies." Senior Travis Palensky

"Admiring the work of the Champ is what I enjoy the most about lunch. There's really nothing else better than watching him clean off his plate. Sometimes it brings a tear to my eye." Junior Brian Comte

"If students were only half as excited about class as they were lunch, the world would be a better place." Mr. Parson

"Lunch is good. Lunch is a special time of day for me, it has always brought out certain feelings for me ,depending on the food and the mood of the lunch ladies." Senior Shane McClintic a.k.a. The National Honor Society changed a little this year. This came in the area of initiation. Instead of using the old traditional method of pulling new members out of class and blindfolding them, they "tapped" them instead. This involved pulling the new members from class and giving them a yellow carnation tipped with blue. They were then all brought together for an announcement to congratulate them. Then next week the formal induction was held at Winfield's.

Besides the new initiation method the National Honor Society also helped out with the community. Members rang bells for the Salvation Army, worked at soup suppers, and participated in the Relay for Life as a team. Some members also helped with raising money for the new drug dog. This involved going door to door around David City and surrounding towns. It was another busy year for the National Honor Society.

Bandtastic!

by Heather Crook

From marching on the field at 7 in the morning to per. forming at a concert at 7 in the evening, the band keeps busy all year round.

This year the bad had the theme of Sesame Street for marching season. The marchig band performed in Schuyler for the Labor Day Parade and in Columbus for regular Competition. They also performed in Lincoln for the Nebraska State Bandmasters Competition. The marching band worked hard this year on learning their music and also learning their field positions.

Along with the marching band the Flag Corps also had to work hard with learning their new routines.

The band finished out their year with Concert band. The band students had to switch modes fast. Instead of marching on the field all they had to do was sit back, relax and enjoy their seats. The band participated in Concert Honor Band and also in the District Band Contest. They then finished out their year with a Pops Concert.

The band achieved all kinds of success this year and should be even better next year with all of their returning students.

"Sing as high as you can!" "Push your words to the end!"

These are many of the words, choir teacher Mr. Byrkit said to the 2002-2003 highschool choir students. The choir consisted of around 52 participants this year with a limited number of boys to push the bass section of the choir. Even though we had an outstanding group of kids, most of the students joined for an easy grade, or so they thought.

This year Mr. Byrkit decided to implement the journal system. The journal system was an easy way of getting the students to get more involved in the class and to put forth some writing effort. Every week we were required to turn in a journal with the activities that we did, what we worked on, what we learned, and of course all of the other comments needed to make the choir a better place to be.

Along with the many activities in the classroom the choir also went to competition and also to entertain the elderly. The choir went to the Central Community College campus for the District Music Contest. Here the choir scored a 2 with the highest being a 1. Choir senior Paige Robinson said, "It was shocking to hear how good we did when I thought it wasn't going to turn out very well."

Next year the choir hopes to continue having a large group and also a good sounding choir with many participants.

Hard Work Pays Off For Cheerleaders

"Red, Black, Attack!" When attending this years football, volleyball, basketball games and wrestling meets, you probably heard and saw this year's cheerleading squad. The DCHS cheer squad was taken over by four sponsors: Ms. Lisa Herrera, Ms. Sherry Zurcher, Ms. Tina Pleskac, and Ms. Angela Miller.

With only seven girls on the squad this year they each had to work extra hard to make sure everything was accomplished. The cheerleaders are responsible for homecoming week, pep rallies, and making sure there are enough girls at almost every home and away games.

Cheerleaders on the squad were freshman Brittney Lensch, sophomores Ashley Havlena, Brittany Kresha, Danielle Schmit, Danelle Weiland, and juniors Holly Crook and Jeana Mach. Captain for the football squad was Danielle Schmit and captain for the volleyball squad was Brittney Lensch. "Cheerleading was a fun learning experience," said Lensch.

Learning new routines, 7 a.m. practices, and entertaining fans during half time. This is what many of this year's Platinum Dancers thought of when asked about dance squad.

This years squad consisted of three freshman and four sophomores. The girls were involved with pep rallies, homecoming week, and the little girls dance and cheer camp. The dance squad dance at almost every home football and basketball game. The Platinum Dancers ended their season with a performance at Columbus High School's, "Jam the Gym." Here the squad performed three of their favorite routines for the public, along with many other area schools.

The four new sponsors were also in charge of the Platinum Dancers. This years captain was sophomore Ashley Havlena.

When asked about this years squad sophomore Danielle Schmit said, "I thought our dance squad was better than any other year. We all got along great, performed awesome dances, and got many compliments on our shiny outfits. Although we lost about half of our squad, we still worked harder than ever and had an amazing year, I only hope next year's new dance squad is half as good and as fun as this year's".

Popular Events

Kami Kuhlman

If you were to ask the average student to name some f their favorite school events of the year, many would eply with answers that have to do with FFA or FCCLA.

First and foremost, these two organizations run the oncession stands at many DCHS events. Can you imagne a football game without hot chocolate? A volleyball ame without popcorn? Basketball without pop? Thankully, you don't have to. And that's not to mention the CCLA soup supper that so many enjoy every year.

But food isn't all. The FFA puts on a "barnyard" evry year where young students get a chance to get up lose and personal with many different farm animals. The FFA also has several safety demonstrations and ducational activities at their barnyard.

And, while we're on the subject of young children, ne FCCLA puts on a "playschool" every year for prechool aged children. The playschool teaches social skills long with many fun arts and craft activities. The little nes even get to do a little cooking.

Finally, it's almost impossible to imagine Valentine's ay without the FCCLA Valentine's cookies. Hundreds f these cookies are sold every year to DC students, and is truly one of the highlights of the year every year.

As the Speech Teams Season came to an abrupt stop, they look back on a very successful season. This year the speech team came home with the many victories that have been put underneath their belts. Along with the many victories it has been a very eventful year. As Freshman Audra Duren recalls, "I remember when we were at the Speech meet in Norfolk and Heather (Crook) jumped on the schools mascot (panther) in the theatre just to take a picture." With so many memories like that, this season will be a hard one to forget.

Along with the great memories we have had great victories. With so many people placing at every meet this season we brought home a lot of hardware. With bringing home all the medals every time it made this years early and long saturday mornings bearable.

Even though we didn't have as many early mornings as expected, the speech team still did very well. A lot of the competitors placed at just about every meet. Yet some stepped it up at Conference and Districts.

At the Conference meet the team had a lot of success. As a whole the team placed first, and individually we brought home a lot of hardware. The first place medal winners were: Beth Fiala, Annie Kobza, Dan Carlson, Ryan Hassebrook, Ashley Havlena and Liz Hart. The second place medalists were: Kevin Schatz, Heather Crook, Sarah Beringer, Malachi Behrens, Annie Kobza, Sarah Schroeder, Ryan Hassebrook, and Liz Hart. Even though the season came to a quick end, the speech team still had to take it "One Step At a Time."

The Next Step

by Heather Crook

Everybody always wants to take the next step, yet some don't make it that far. But for three speech competitors this year, they got to take the next step. Senior Liz Hart and Sophmores Ashley Havlena and Ryan Hassebrook all got to compete at the state speech meet this year.

Throughout the year the three had may victories. At almost every speech meet they placed in the top of their topic areas. At the Conference speech meet they gave a great showing too. Ashley placed first place at the Conference meet with her Informative speech over bubbles and she placed second at Districts. With her second place finish Ashley was on her way to state. "I could not believe it when they announced that I was going to state. I was in shock! My goal was to first make finals at conference, then I got first. I then just wanted to make district finals, but I also made it to state. At state I just wanted to do my best overall. It was a great experience, and I came out of it all with a 4th place medal," said Ashley Havlena on her comments for the year.

Liz Hart also put on a good show at the conference and district meets. With her hard work throughout the year she ended up placing second at conference with her Entertainment speech, and second at districts which allowed her to go to state. She participated at state but was not able to break finals.

Ryan Hassebrook our last state speech competitor did a very nice job throughout the year too. Ryan placed second at conference and second at districts in the extemporaneous category. Ryan spent many nights at the school studying his magazines and going through old speeches so he would know exactly where to find the information he needed at a meet. With the hard work that he put into the year he placed 5th place at State.

Along with everyone else speech coach Mrs. Mathiesen was very happy with her competitors. "I was satisfied with the team's efforts this year since it was a rebuilding year. There was a lot of both team and individual success which will carry over into future years."

Helping and creating projects for the student body is part of being a student council member. There were many opportunities for student council members to take part in helping the students and David City High School.

Many student council members chose to go to the spring workshop, which was held at Fremont High School and the fall workshop, which was held in Genoa. At these workshops members learned leadership skills, and shared ideas with other schools on helping, and creating projects for their school. Students also worked at parent teacher conferences and the bloodmobile.

This year's executive officers included: President-Nolan Behrns; Vice-President-Shane McClintic; Secretary-Sarah Beringer; Treasurer-Kami Kuhlman; and Guard-Janice Crook.

Glock Breaks School Record

Few events in track and field require as much technique and precision as the triple jump. This year, freshman Cassie Glock made it look easy as she broke the school record in the event.

Glock's personal mark was one of many highlights for the girls track team this year. Although plagued by low numbers again this year, the team was competitive in mnay of their meets, and sent multiple participants to state for the second straight year.

Junior Stacia Fricke and sophomore

Sarah Behrns once again represented the. lady Scouts at the state meet. It was the second consecutive year at state for both participants.

Next year looks like another promising one for Coach Ockander, who returns several underclassmen who scored many points for the track team. It should be interesting to see how far Cassie and the Scouts can soar in the future.

Pickett Goes to State

Jared Pickett had a breakthrough track season, which culminated with him representing David City at the State Track Meet. Pickett's qualifying for the meet extended the Scouts' streak of sending athletes to Omaha. Last year, Carey Trowbridge qualified.

Pickett was one of many who contributed to the Scouts' track success this year. Seniors Josh Codr and Michael Graybill showed strong senior leadership in helping David City to another good year. Like the girls, the boys struggle with low numbers, but the athletes who chose to go out showed hard work and determination, and represented our school well.

Pickett will be back next year, along with a hopeful group of returning letterwinnerswho hope to continue the tradition of representing our school in the state meet.

A Familiar Ending

It was just another ho-hum year for David City golf. You know, winning several tournaments, sending its whole team to state, that sort of thing.

In what has become as automatic as the spring rain, Coach Tom VanWinkle took his golf team to state again this year. This year's version of the Scout golf team was senior-heavy, with Tom Lensch, Nolan Behrns, and Colby Slonecker providing leadership and guidance. Lensch capped off what can only be considered one of the best senior years in David City history. leading his teams in football, basketball, and keeping it all going with golf.

Don't feel too sorry for Coach VW, though. While he is losing some real quality to graduation, sophomore Micah Brehm and freshman Mason Samek return next season. Both had shining moments this season for the Scouts.

So, here's looking forward to another predictable ending in an unpredictable sport next year.

Party Gras!

Whether it was the theme (Mardi Gras), the killer decorations, the great meal, or just a lot of juniors and seniors ready to have a good time, 2003's prom was one of the best in recent memory.

Students danced until the wee hours at the DC Activity Center before heading to Columbus for the Post-Prom activities, which included a karaoke jam and a hypnotist

Joe Hilger and Tar McMillan were King an Queen, respectively. Atter dants were Tracy Romshel Elizabeth Hart, Tom Lensch and Jeff Schmid.

Post Prom Fun

Simply the Best

DCHS Prom Royalty, 2003.

Won't the real Slim Shady please stand up?

Junior Marshall Mathers, er, Dusty Smith prepares to dance the night away.

ROCK ON!

Juniors Reily McKay and Katie McClintic look like they're waiting for AC / DC to take the stage.

I glove you.

Senior Shane McClintic and junior Samantha Hopwood keep their hands fashionably warm at prom.

"Time of Your Life"

Beth Fiala, Carolin Fengler, Jenna Egeberg, Jenna Daro, Janice Crook, Frank Long, Nolan Behrns, Cory Polacek, and the rest of the class of 2003 prepare to relive some precious memories through the slide show.

Graduation Brings Changes

May 10, 2003 was another typi- ents, coaches, and teachers who al spring day in David City. The vind, rain, and cold temperatures nay have dampened the moods of nany that day, but for the 48 seiors who graduated from DCHS, othing could spoil the mood.

Class president Josh Codr pened the ceremony with his welome speech, thanking all the par-helped along the way.

Salutatorian Cory Polacek likened his high school experience to a reality TV show in a very entertain ing and original speech.

The ultimate "Survivor", though, was Chris Glock, the valedictorian for the class of '03. Chris spoke about the many changes that have taken place during his high school years, and the good memories shared by all.

Yes, May 10 brought about some changes at DCHS, but as the class of 2004 now steps up to take over the school for the next year, we are reminded that the more things change, the more they stay the same.

Class of 2003

Jenna Daro, Janice Crook, and Frank Long on stage.
